GRADY SMILES AS HE STEPS FROM BOOTH ...after casting ballot at the end of Senate campaign

Glades voters were more conservative

Glades voters proved to be a shade more conservative Tuesday than statewide returns indicate the entire state went.

One of the surest indications was the results in the amendment polls, with the Glades rejecting three and approving four while the state generally approved all but one.

But the trend was there in the statewide elections too. Dr. John Grady predictably carried the Glades with a heavy vote over Democrat Richard Stone and Republican Jack Eckerd but they also went along with the county by giving Republican challenger Jerry Thomas the nod over Gov. Reubin Askew.

But the trend was there in the statewide elections too. Dr. John Grady predictably carried the Glades with a heavy vote over Democrat Richard Stone and Republican Jack Eckerd but they also went along with the county by giving Republican challenger Jerry Thomas the nod over Gov. Reubin Askew.

Grady picked up a total of 1,821 votes in the seven precincts in Southwest Palm Beach County while Stone came in a distant second with 706 votes and drugstore magnate Eckerd was last with 307 votes. Thomas and his running mate Mike Thompson also pulled a comfortable margin from the Glades, getting 1,594 votes compared to the 1,202 picked up by Askew and J.H. Williams. Even though statewide trends gave Askew an easy victory over the Republican.

In other races, the Glades voters:

Went with the county in ousting airline pilot Republican Russell Sykes from his District 26 State Senate seat by giving the nod to Democrat Harry A. Johnson II, 1,212-1,050.

Went with the county in defeating incumbent Republican Tom Johnson's bid for reelection by handing it to Democrat Don C. Childers, 1,323-1,020.

Re-elected Donald F. Hazelton over Joseph C. Ferrara, 1,038-902 to give the Republicans another year in District 78 in the State House of Representatives.

Went with the county in defeating incumbent Republican Raymond J. Moudry by giving State House District 79 to Gene Campbell, 1,157-929.

Disagreed with county-wide voters by giving incumbent Dave Clark the nod over challenging Democrat Edward J. Healey in District 81, 975-922.

Installed challenging Democrat John J. Cavanaugh in the 82nd District with a 1,195-914 vote over incumbent Jay J. Reynolds.

Returned incumbent Republican Tom Lewis to District 83 with a 1,171-979 vote over challenging Democrat Edward F. O'Connor.

In local races Glades voters:

Overwhelmingly returned Democratic Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester, 1,785-518 over the opposition of Republican Dave Elliott.

Agreed with the county to return Democratic incumbent Palm Beach County Commissioner Lake Lytal, 1,372-893 over Republican challenger Bill Copland Sr.

Agreed with voters countywide to install Bill Medlin as County Commissioner in District 4, 1,241-987 over his Republican opponent, William A. Cruickshank.

Disappointed Grady lacked identification

A disappointed John Grady knew by 9 p.m. Tuesday night he had not won the U.S. Senate race against major party candidates Democrat Richard Stone and Republican Jack Eckerd.

"The informed, educated voter who took time to study the candidates and the issues voted for me," Grady said at his 900 S.E. 3rd St. home late Tuesday night. "What we are seeing here (he gestured toward the television set which was showing national and local returns) is the mass, uneducated electorate. It's a case where I am suffering from name identification."

At 9:30 Tuesday night, Grady was pulling between 16 and 17 per cent of the vote statewide. By the time the Panhandle area is counted where Grady is the strongest—he hopes to have 20-25 per cent of the vote.

While Grady was talking about the state election his television set was painting a picture of a Democratic landslide throughout the country.

With one ear cocked to the national news, Grady said, "What we are seeing is a mass re-election of liberals who should have been voted out of office. These people either don't know or don't want to know what is wrong with our country."

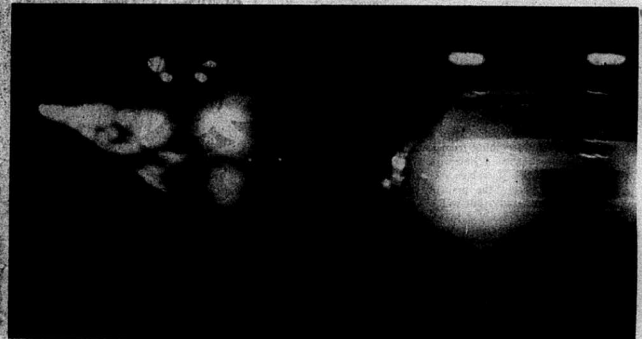

Any immediate plans? Will Grady stay in politics or go back to being a country doctor.

"I didn't get into this race just to enter a life of politics," said Grady. "I got into it because I honestly think this country is on the ropes."

"I would find it difficult to run for some lesser office just to stay in politics. One Congressman in Washington can't stem the tide. It has to be a member of the Senate who can lead more people into checking the way I do. Or a president, and you don't see any true Constitutional conservative for that office on the horizon."

Well, then, has it been discussed within the American Party or would he consider running for President on that ticket in 1978.

"No there has been no discussion on this. I'm not even considering it. All I know is that I'm tired right now. This is a big state to campaign in. Maybe by tomorrow I'll be ready again," he said, a smile creasing his face for the first time that evening.

Co-op, Quaker to build water main

Work on a 12 inch water main in the Northeast section of Belle Glade is expected to be speeded up considerably by the offer by two local industries to build it.

Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. President George Wedgworth said his company and Quaker Oats further plans would pay for engineering the line and contract to have it installed.

The Belle Glade City Commission accepted the concept in a workshop session Monday night but said final agreement would have to be worked out, particularly the method in which the city would reimburse the two industries.

Wedgworth's proposal was that the city would reimburse the cooperative and Quaker Oats by deducting a percentage from their water bills over the years to pay for the investment and the interest involved.

City commissioners agreed in principle but made it clear they wanted to talk about reimbursing the interest and whether the cooperative and Quaker Oats have any responsibility for sharing in the cost of a proposed ground storage tank if one is needed in that area.

Wedgworth maintained that since the sugar mill and the furfural plant are constant users and storage tanks are aimed toward users with peaks of demand, the two plants shouldn't have to help pay for the tank. Commissioner Tom Altman pointed out, however, with the two mills using approximately half of the city's water supply, they might have some responsibility, even though any fluctuation in demand and storage may not be caused directly by them.

The water line would connect to another 12 inch line at Northeast First Street and Avenue D and run through the sugar mill and furfural plant by way of Airport Road.

Wedgworth said a preliminary study by Hutcheon Engineer's indicated the total cost for the parallel lines would be approximately $226,000 compared to the $185,000 high estimate made in an earlier study by city consulting engineers, Briley-Wild and Associates.

Wedgworth said Hutcheon's study also installing a new raw water intake in Lake Okechobee off Kreamer Island, a project the city has considered on their own.

But Wedgworth obviously surprised the commissioners with the news Hutcheon's estimated cost for the intake was more than double Briley-Wild's.

Briley-Wild had estimated the project would cost approximately $900,000 and Hutcheon estimated the cost at more than $2 million.

Hutcheon also offered an alternative plan of installing an intake off Bacon Point, running the main line south on SR 715. The reason, Wedgworth said was because of difficulties of construction on Kreamer Island, maintenance problems, the possibility of the line breaking during a hurricane and the problem of what happens if and when the lake level is raised.

Wedgworth said a water quality study had been included in the overall study Hutcheon performed for the two industries and the city is welcome to the results.

The city also accepted another offer by Wedgworth and Robert Pease, general manager of the Quaker Oats plant, to use the consulting services of three engineering firms, specializing in water systems, at the city's treatment plant.

Wedgworth said the industries would foot the bill for the consulting service and the engineers would look over the plant's operation and offer recommendations the city could either accept or reject.

The commissioners decided to accept his offer and Mallory said Tuesday he had so advised Briley-Wild and had given the go-ahead to Wedgworth.

Sugar Cane Growers and Quaker Oats had earlier made an offer to finance the parallel lines and the construction of the raw water intake but Wedgworth said the two plants are no longer interested in the intake.

The plants will, instead, build their own water treatment plant which will use city water as a source before bringing it up to quality demanded in the processing.

The reason for the proposed intake was to increase the quality standards of the water before it reached the city's treatment plant, especially in the summer months, but there was some indication Monday night the commission may reject that plan.

The rejection may be made possible by the raising of the lake, which would automatically raise the quality of the water at the intake.

Tidy Tim is little elf's name

An imagination which combined the purpose of the Belle Glade Beautification Committee with a takeoff on a well-known entertainer's name won a $25 U.S. Savings Bond for Mrs. Peggy Wilson of 1032 S.E. Fourth St. Tuesday.

Tidy Tim was the name given by Mrs. Wilson to an elf created in the Glades Central High School commercial arts class to serve as a mascot for the Beautification Committee.

The name was picked from a large number of possibilities Friday by judges at the Belle Glade Municipal Library and Dr. Robert Allen, the committee's Beautification Week Chairman, awarded the bond to Mrs. Wilson Tuesday, the second day of the city-wide Beautification Week.

Mrs. Wilson is a freshman at Palm Beach Junior College Glades according to Mrs. Effie Grear, committee chairman for the year.

Mrs. Grear said a number of businesses and organizations are participating in the week. Gove Elementary School students cleaned up around the grounds around the West Area Exceptional Educational Center there. Glades Central students were landscaping around the school and Glades Day School students planted a tree to provide shade in the elementary school area.

St. Peters Lutheran students cleaned up around their school and the youth department of Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church cleaned up around the church and Sunset Heights Nursing Home.

Mrs. Grear said other cleaner-uppers included the Rehabilitation Center, Milton Carpenter Insurance Co. with its new building and the Belle Glade Herald, which is cleaning up its building and paving the parking lot.

Sour grapes

It most assuredly was a disappointing day for Belle Glade.

As election fever built through Tuesday the question more and more people kept asking was "can he do it?"

Everybody wanted to know if John Grady could pull off the political Truman over Dewey and whip Democratic foe Dick Stone and Republican opponent, Jack Eckerd, in the Florida Senate race.

Over 60 cars met Grady at the Pahokee airport to escort him back to Belle Glade where he was to vote in the American Legion Post, precinct 37.

If the southwest portion of Palm Beach County could have been an accurate microcosm of the entire state, Grady would have won by a landslide.

He took 64.3 per cent of the vote cast in the seven precincts stretching from Lake Harbor to Belle Glade. Stone finished second with 24.9 per cent of the vote and Eckerd a poor last with 10.8 per cent.

Unfortunately the rest of the state doesn't know the name Grady that well. And when the dust had settled Grady received just under 16 per cent of the vote, Stone won with 43 per cent of the vote and Eckerd was second with 41 per cent.

Basically, what Florida has done is elect another attorney-U.S. Senator who will more than likely fall into the establishment pattern of Democratic Washington, D.C.

Stone has given no indication he will fight for what the little man wants. He will not be an effective voice against wasteful government spending. He will not fight vigorously for drastically reducing American foreign aid. He will not fight against the federal government's ever-increasing encroachment on state rights.

Or if he does it will come as a complete surprise to everyone concerned.

Florida has a chance to elect a man who would fight vigorously for what we just outlined and much, much more. But the voters of Florida blew it.

If this sounds like sour grapes—well, maybe it is.

No records here

Dear Mr. Jones:

Just got my copy of the Herald. I read your article about the Raider Defense and had some information for you about Belle Glade High School defense.

The 1962 edition (class of '68) of the Belle Glade Herald has the following information: "They were known then as the Raiders and they won't win any points for the first seven games plus one quarter of the eighth-in other words, 29 quarters with no points."

For the year, the team's record was 9-0-1. Only a 14-14 tie by Pahokee in the last game spoiled a perfect record.

For the year also, the Rams scored 235 points in 10 games to 27 points by the opposition—all in the last three games. That's an average of 23.5 per game.

"Hope this info helps and I know the Class of '69 would like to see you print it!"

Homecoming hoopla

Glades Central High School students began Wednesday working up to Homecoming festivities next week with the election of Miss Glades Central and her court for 1974-75.

Although the homecoming queen was elected Wednesday, however, her name won't be announced until Tuesday. The candidates are Miss Laverne Bryant, Miss Patricia Bueno and Miss Valerie Veen.

The student body won't know until the coronation takes place Tuesday which will be Miss Glades Central. The first runner-up will be Miss Senior and the second runner-up will be Attendant to Miss Glades Central.

The annual skill contest between the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the school gym Thursday.

Getting ready for the big game against Martin County on Friday, Nov. 15, a pep rally will be held at 3 p.m.

followed by the annual Homecoming Parade at 4 p.m.

The parade will form at the gym and will work its way down West Canal Street to Main Street, south to Avenue E, west to South-west Fifth Street and north back to the school.

Anyone wishing to enter floats or units in the parade should contact parade coordinator Bert Ward as soon as possible.

The class float judging will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the annual parade around the playing field just before the game begins.

Who's responsible?

Dear Sir:

Each week a housewife enters the local grocery stores, she probably has cut one or more of her usual items from her list, making do with less because of the increase in prices she will find as she goes down her list.

From farmer to retail grocery store, no one will accept responsibility, yet there it is, same item just a few cents more each week, per item, all adding up.

One of the most disgusting sights to greet the already unhappy shopper is row after row of damaged goods, some of them out-dated for years, increase, sit on the store's counters with bag after bag slashed by a careless stockboy as he razors over the bulk crate when the bags are price marked. Waste. Check the other boxed goods, such as cake mixes, flour, cereal. The floor practically crunches under your feet. Your shoes come out clean from the detergent section.

Who is paying for this local mess? I am, and you are. Why are prices in the same state-wide chain store, one of the largest chains in the whole state, much higher here than in Miami? Waste, carelessness in handling, lack of supervision by the store manager, lack of inspection by the district supervisor. Complaints, to whoever seems to be in charge at the moment seem to have no effect at all, and when asked for the name and address of the district supervisor all the customer gets is a blank stare and the dubious answer that the man isn't here. But I am not who his boss is!

I would like to remain anonymous because it is possible the next time I go to the store they won't let me pay for my groceries by check although I have been paying that way for years. But I am sickened at paying for waste along with inflation—when somebody could, and should care, enough about the goods they are selling to see to it that as little as possible is damaged in the store, and offered up to the customer in that damaged state or thrown away and the cost added on to the next crate price.

All I can really say to you store manager, you bumbling stockboy, and you non-existent district supervisor, is that I hope your grocery bill goes up too!

Use farm land for farming

Orlando—South Florida farmers, presently prohibited from utilizing parts of their own lands, must be allowed to use all their acreage, declares Fred Montadoco, president of the Agribusiness Institute of Florida.

The lands in question, adjacent to conservation areas of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, have long been designated agricultural. Pressures upon the State Cabinet from environmentalists and other groups have resulted in the Cabinet holding up permits necessary for use of the land for crops.

(Name withheld by request)

I would like to welcome Henry Rionda as a new contributor to the Glenn H. Laney Jr. slush fund and welcome back old friend Bob White for his second week as a member extraordinaire.

Newly crowned city commissioner Tommy Altman refused to become involved, saying he couldn't stand the public embarrassment and humiliation of it all. First time I've ever met anybody from FSU with even a little bit of common sense!

Henry not only had the audacity to bet against my Florida Gators (25-14 victors over previously unbeaten and No. 4 ranked Auburn) but he also put money on his alma mater—who else but FSU.

I think the Jacksonville Journal captured the futility of the Tallahassee Seminoles better than any one with a headline that read: "FSU Losing Streak Reaches 20; If Anybody's Counting!"

I thought I was being charitable in giving Henry FSU and six against the likes of Memphis State. Turns out I could have given him 26 and still won the bet. The final score was something like 42-14.

And alas, poor Bob White. Not only has his wife forbid him to play golf with me since I ran her picture on the front page of the newspaper, but now he has lost two straight bets on the Gators. At least he had sense enough to bet for the Seminoles—right Henry?

Anyway, Bob refused to pay me after he lost his bet on the Florida-FSU bet. Instead he said he would go me double or nothing on the Florida-Auburn game. He also wanted equal time in this column after "Auburn just tears Florida up."

I haven't heard from Bob lately. Funny, though, all my phones at The Herald were out of order Monday morning.

Next week the Gators have a home game against Georgia. The Bulldogs (maybe they should be called the puppy dogs) lost another one this weekend. Florida may give the freshman squad and start the real football players a rest against Georgia.

This column, of course, is being written long before election results are final. So what I have to say now is in no way affected by the knowledge we will have about the election once this reaches print Thursday.

It is really funny to see the turnout of the major newspapers have done on John Grady. Less than a month ago they were putting out information on this Senate race and they didn't even mention Grady's name. They did not even acknowledge Grady was in the race.

This past weekend every story I read in the major dailies not only mentioned Grady, they mentioned him in the headlines. All the stories were along the line that Grady would definitely pull enough votes now (some gave him as high as 15 per cent) to become the spoiler in this campaign.

The professional prognosticators are saying Grady will stay most into the votes of Jack Eckerd. Eckerd, who ignored Grady as any kind of opposition in a recent speech in Belle Glade, has now taken to attacking him.

Grady, meanwhile, smiles through it all and says the pollsters are wrong. He counters by saying the majority of Wallace voters are registered Democrats and these are the votes he is going to get.

Grady is claiming he will get 41 per cent of the vote and be the winner.

Some people are still not sure about whether there could be a runoff or not. There can't.

In a primary where there is a three-way race, the winner must receive at least 50 per cent of the vote cast plus one. If nobody receives this plurality then a runoff is scheduled between the two highest vote getters. This is not the case in a general election. The man who gets the most votes, period, is the winner.

So there is no tomorrow. Tuesday is the day. One of three men is going to walk away the winner. And while either one of the two major party candidates might have felt he was a shoo-in three weeks ago—now neither one is so sure. n/y

Since Grady went on television with his half hour special two weeks ago, South Bay headquarters reports averaging 1,000 letters a day with donations of from one to three dollars.

There is no doubt there is a ground swell in this state for John Grady. Whether that ground swell will have time to reach maturity by 7 p.m. Tuesday is a question nobody knows the answer to.

Button bustin' time for Johnny

Johnny Rutledge was one proud papa.

The photo gremlins had gotten to me again and I was just wandering up and down the sidelines with a used-up camera at the Raiders' weekly massacre when Johnny walked up.

I'd never seen Johnny on the sidelines before but it wasn't too hard to figure out what he was doing there...specially since he'd already busted the zipper on his jacket and the buttons on his shirt.

Come to think of it, his cap was getting to be a pretty tight fit too.

For the blind, deaf and hermits around town who may not have gotten the word, Johnny's son, Raider junior quarterback Johnny Rutledge Jr., was subbing for senior quarterback Rigo Ruiz and handing the Naples Eagles a 31-0 shellacking.

I had gotten just a little sick when I first made it to the stadium and Rigo hobbled up on crutches. Seems he'd messed up one knee during practice the day before.

With the Raiders' only really seasoned field general out for the game, and possibly the season, there were a few other people feeling queasy too.

But here was Johnny in the fourth quarter watching the son and heir throwing the football like a young Bart Starr for 137 yards and three touchdowns on his way to winning the Player of the Week Award.

"This is great," he grinned. "He kept saying he could do it but

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Rigo was having such a good season."

I kept waiting but Johnny never quite came out and said, "That's my boy!"

The game was special to another guy on the sidelines too.

This happened to be the 100th victory for head Raider coach Al Wernecke, a record since his teams managed the 100 with only 24 losses and three ties.

Might note 37 of those victories came right here at Glades Central too. The Super-Bad Raiders have been good to Al and Al's been good to the Raiders.

School spirit and material count for a lot in determining how successful a school's football team is but you just can't underestimate the importance of the head coach.

A darn good example was London High School up in Jacksonville where I went back during the Third Ice Age.

We had a coach named Barney (the Bear) Swartz who used the Tennessee single wing to carry the Lions to one state championship after another. If we didn't win, we were at least ranked.

A few years later, when I came back from doing my tour with Uncle Sam's Wind Force in Germany, the Lions were in the middle of what turned out to be the longest losing streak I ever saw before FSU's current effort to set a record.

The Bear was gone. That's the only Bear Swartz I could see. But I saw another difference Saturday in still another great football game.

Drove up to catch the Florida-Auburn game...if you could call it a game that is. Heb, he had.

I've seen a lot of versions of the Florida Gators over the years but this had to be the most potent team of Gators I've ever seen...and that includes the Steve Spurrier and John Reeves years.

And the crowd, the largest ever to pack Florida Field, was the wildest, most out-of-control pack of Gator fans that ever gathered in one place.

I honestly believe, as fired up as the Gators were and with that kind of home-town support, they could have whipped anyone in the nation that day, with the possible exception of Ohio State and Oklahoma.

The whole game was one big trip and you didn't have to have a bottle to get drunk off what was happening. I went along with three Florida fans and not a single one left out with voices intact.

One of the funniest things I saw in a delicious day happened during the halftime.

One guy in the stands took a poke at the Auburn battle cry of "War Eagle" with a sign he'd made up which used a fake dead chicken hanging from a stick with the words "War Chicken" written on it.

Not being one to leave well enough alone, several of us took it a step further and started yelling War Buzzard and when the game was over, we started urging the Plainmen leaving Florida Field to "Go Buzzards, Bust 'Bama!"

Whoee! I can see it now. Florida in a three-way tie for the SEC Championship!

And as Tommy Altman pointed out the other night, next year is the Year of the Gator! Wow!

Underemployed people to be helped by grant

As many as 300 out-of-work or underemployed people could be helped by a $200,212 grant designed to train and find work for them.

The program will be administered by Community Action Migrant Program, Inc. Regional Director Patty Bullock said recently. The funds were awarded by the Palm Beach County Commission and is only part of a larger program.

The appropriations were authorized by Congress to carry out the purpose of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973. Eligible applicants will be enrolled in pre-vocational training classes to be held at the Belle Glade CAMP office, Ms. Bullock said.

The classes would emphasize the selling of one's self to a prospective employer and on how to keep a job once given.

"Everybody would have to be trained in these classes," Ms. Bullock said. Then after a participant has completed this two-week class, they would go on to on-the-job-training or into a vocational training course up to eight weeks long.

Before the pre-vocational classes can begin, however, she said a business must have already given assurance they would hire the participant after he's completed his training.

Ms. Bullock said CAMP has already been contacting some of the larger employers in the county to find prospective employers for the program but said others who may be interested can contact her at 996-7659.

She said the occupational classes would probably be those offered in vocational schools throughout the county, and being offered now at Glades Central in night classes.

During the entire training period, Ms. Bullock said participants would receive a training allowance of $2 per hour plus $5 per week for up to six children after his first two.

In other words, he would receive no allowance for the first two children but would receive $5 per week for children numbered three through eight, amounting to a total of $10 per week for a man with a wife and eight children.

"We hope to involve a total of about 300 in the program and maybe 41 in the vocational training," Ms. Bullock said. Benefits to the participant would also include transportation, child care assistance, health care assistance, and relocation assistance.

Eligible would be anyone falling under the county's poverty guidelines, who is either unemployed or under employed. She said an under employed person is one who is ready, willing and able to work full time but who is unable to find a fulltime job.

The program will be administered not only in the local office but through the CAMP office in Boynton Beach.

Over 200 children participated in the Glades Day School Halloween Parade on the Pahokee Campus during the Annual Halloween Carnival.

Mrs. Tinky Nason, Elementary School Principal, announced the winners of each grade and presented the overall winners with Rosette ribbons and tickets to the carnival.

The Glades Day School Band, directed by Mr. Fred Stevens, added excitement and a true parade atmosphere to the festivities by playing for the parade.

LP Gas saves you money

LP Gas will cook almost 2 meals with the same amount of original energy it takes to cook 1 meal electrically.

LP Gas will dry about three and one-third loads of clothes with the same amount of original energy it takes to dry 1 load electrically.

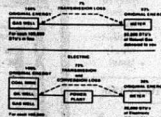

LP Gas will heat almost two and one-half gallons of water with the same amount of original energy it takes to heat 1 gallon electrically.

LP Gas comes to you straight-no inefficient conversion to another type of fuel. It's pure energy, in its cleanest, most efficient form. With gas 93 percent of the original energy comes into your home, ready for direct use in your gas appliances. So you can see, very little is used in delivery to you. On the other hand, around here, most electric power is generated from burning coal, and some oil and natural gas. And only about 28 percent of the original energy is delivered to you as electricity. Obviously, most of the original energy is lost when converted into electrical power. See chart below.

Watch out Pros—here come the Pee Wee Junior Football Players.

The Junior Football League is in its full swing of the second season with four teams in the league again, competing against each other.

For once in many moons I got the chance to get off for awhile on Tuesday evening and decided to go and see how the Junior League was faring this season. I knew they had started once again but I just hadn't been able to cover any of the games.

I tell you, after watching pro football games, high school games and college football, it sure was a switch seeing boys out there on the field who weighed less than 100 pounds, and 96 per cent of them being under five feet tall.

One guy that really struck me was No. 22 on the Jets' team. He had to be one of the smallest kids out there but they didn't keep him from playing. If anything, he was better than some of the others twice his size.

The Jets were playing the Rams when I got there, and for once they were on the winning end of the stick. I was glad to see it—last year I went to everyone of their games, and though they tried their hardest, it seemed as if everything went the wrong way.

Several of the mothers agreed with me.

The most interesting thing to watch at a football game is the reaction of the mothers or grandparents of the players on the team. Some of them don't even know half of what's going on, yet there they are yelling their hearts out. And if a penalty is called against their team they boo the umpires and anyone else who stands in the way.

And if their son breaks away for a long gain or makes a great tackle, they jump up and down and shriek for joy. And who can blame them? After all, it's their own flesh and blood out there.

It's really good to have some activity for the younger kids in Belle Glade though. I'm glad there are some people who care enough about the younger ones and want to give them something constructive rather than having them wander around aimlessly. That's why a lot of youths leave Belle Glade whenever they get old enough because of lack of things to do.

I hope eventually the city will get some revenue and begin to build some more tennis courts, softball fields, and other recreational facilities as they have long since proposed to do.

Got some good news and some bad news.

Glades Central's No. 1 quarterback may be out for the rest of the season as a result of an injury. Now for the good news—if last Friday night is an example of his prowess, Johnny Rutledge proved can step in and do the job for the Raiders when needed.

Coach Al Werneke had nothing but praise for Rutledge after Glades Central's 31-0 pounding over the Naples Eagles.

Best of luck to the Raiders as they face North Fort Myers this Friday.

Raiders sock it to Eagles, 31-0

Glades Central's Super Bad Raiders exploded for 31 points Friday to hand Coach Al Werneke his 100th victory in 13 years of coaching. The Raiders coasted to an easy 31-0 victory over the hapless Naples Eagles.

Junior quarterback Johnny Rutledge fired three touchdown passes in his first starting assignment, when he had to take over for the injured senior quarterback Rigo Ruiz.

On the first play of the second quarter Rutledge connected on a 76 yard scoring pass to Anthony "The Flea" Burger.

David Kinlaw converted, and the Raiders led 7-0 until late in the second quarter when Rutledge found Rudi Collier all alone on the Eagle 10 yard line and he raced in for a 25 yard touchdown. The extra point was missed and the Raiders took a 13-0 lead to the dressing room at halftime.

Midway in the third quarter Rutledge hit senior running back Norman Smith on the 15 yard line with a screen pass and Norman raced in for the score behind excellent blocks thrown by Davey Locke, Allen Inney, Dicky Sweet and Michael Pringle.

Rainfall average down by four inches

After four months of heavier-than-normal rains, the Agricultural Research and Education Center here recorded almost four inches less than usual for the month of October.

The center's October report indicates only 1.18 inches, compared to a 50 year average of 5.09 inches, of rain fell during the Halloween month, building a deficit for the year to 6.14 inches.

The center has recorded a total of 47.92 inches of rain for the year as opposed to a 51 year average of 54.06 inches.

The try for the two point conversion was knocked down and the Raiders led 19-0.

With just seconds left in the third quarter lightning struck again as Anthony Burger raced 82 yards for a touchdown on a reverse behind beautiful blocking by the offensive line.

A bad snap ended the attempt for a conversion and the quarter ended with the Super Bad Raiders leading 26-0.

The Raiders added a final score in the fourth quarter after Charles Small intercepted a Naples pass on the Raider 58 yard line and raced the ball down to the Naples 31 yard line.

Under the direction of David Philpott, rated 31 yards in five plays, Norman Smith scored from six yards out on a sweep around left end. The conversion was missed and the Raiders had their sixth victory of the year against one tie.

The 31-0 victory was the Raiders fifth shutout of the season.

The game had special meaning for Coach Al Werneke for it was his 100th coaching victory—13 years as a head football coach. Thirty-seven of these victories have come at Glades Central High School in the past four years.

Coach Werneke's record stands at 100 victories, 24 losses and three ties. When asked about his most important victory, the coach said "Next Friday night against North Fort Myers."

The Offensive Player of the Week Award went to young Johnny Rutledge who hit on four out of nine passes good for 137 yards and three touchdowns. Johnny also gained 10 yards in three carries.

Johnny was closely followed by "The Flea," Anthony Burger who caught a 76-yard touchdown pass and raced another 80 yards for a touchdown on a reverse. Anthony had 102 yards rushing in six carries and racked up two touchdowns.

Defensively, the Raiders forced Naples into nine turnovers. The Raider linebackers intercepted three passes: David Kinlaw, Charles Small, and Michael Washington each grabbing one pass.

The Raider secondary, not to be outdone by the linebackers, intercepted three passes as senior Jaseel Simmon intercepted two and junior middle safety T.J. Sailer intercepted one. Junior tackle Ernest Jackson recovered two fumbles while Calvin Willis and Charles Ford recovered one each. Senior All-State candidate David Jones led the team in tackles with 11. David sacked the Eagle quarterback three times. David was followed by Calvin Willis and Charles Small in tackles with eight each. David Kinlaw, Willie Terry, Ernest Jackson and Bruce Rimes had five tackles each.

All things considered it was an alert, aggressive game for the Super Bad Raiders.

The second ranked Raiders will get a stiff test this Friday night as they travel to North Fort Myers for an 8 p.m. game with the Red Knights.

North Palm Beach [305] 844-2100

The Belle Glade Municipal Library will help to celebrate Children's Book Week by the presentation of special puppet shows, book displays, etc.

The hours of 9-11 a.m. and 3-4 p.m. each day have been set aside for showings of puppet plays, "The Terrible Roar," and "The Sausage on the End of the Nose."

During these hours, classes from the local schools, and day immersion will be able to view the puppet shows. Teachers must call the library to arrange a time and date—996-5463.

At 11 a.m. each morning the library staff will present the puppet show "The Terrible Roar" for preschoolers and their mothers. And at 4 p.m. each afternoon the "Terrible Roar" will be shown for any interested children who might not have been able to come with a school class.

"THE TERRIBLE ROAR" is about a little lion who has a problem. It's a tickle like a sneeze. But instead of a sneeze it comes out a roar, a terrible roar. Each time the little lion roars something vanishes. Until there is nothing left but the roar...

"THE SAUSAGE ON THE END OF THE NOSE" tells the story about "nose books" in a library who have a "problem." How can they get a sausage off the nose of one of their friends.

FAIRY TALES. The selection is humorous, yet tells a lesson at the same time.

HATTIE, THE PINK HIPPO likes to read. In fact, she likes to read so much that when she is finished reading a book, she gobbles it down. KIDDI! Can you help save our library books from HATTIE'S enormous appetite by checking out one of the "gossamer" books?

HATTIE is not particular, she likes to read [and eat] Fairy Tales, Sports, animal adventures, mysteries, and even science fiction.

Library cards are free for children during Children's Book Week. If a child is a new library reader, or has simply lost his first card, the library will give him a new card free.

Reading is a shared pleasure; it can bring the sometimes imaginary and real world of books a child and his parent a little closer. One author said, "It is not so much the books written expressly for children, so much as it is the books written out of minds that have not lost their childhood that will form the body of literature which shall be classic for the young."

Witches--goblins abounded all over the Glades

All around the Glades it was trick or treat, spooky scarum time last week as hobgoblins, ghosts and other assorted bogeymen consorted in school carnivals and along the streets seeking goodies. The pint-sized monsters appeared at St. Peter's Lutheran, Glades Day, the Okeechobee Day Care Center, Christian Day School and others.

Drinking—a medical, not a police problem

(part 1)

This is one governmental agency which isn't set up to solve problems. It only identifies them. That is, if the word "only" can be applied to alcoholism.

The Community Action Nigrant Program's Alcohol Rehabilitation Center in South Bay is the only one in the Glades and will play an important part in the changing attitudes toward drunkness.

The problem has come to be realized by experts as a medical rather than a police problem and the center was formed with the purpose of helping alcoholics lick their problem.

"We can't make a person stop drinking," Director William H. King said, "but we can help him identify the problem. We can show him what alcohol can do to him."

King said this identification is the main goal of the center, then center staffers can help the patient, once he decides what he wants to do, solve that problem.

"The client may want to completely stop drinking," King said, "or he may want to begin controlling his drinking."

"Some people can have two drinks and be all right," he said, "but it they attempt to take one

King said the centre's program is designed to help anyone who needs help, whether they want it or not and while he prefers the client to come to the centre of his own free will, he can also be committed against his will much the same as a mental patient.

Once the person is committed, voluntarily or involuntarily, he begins a program designed to first dry him out and then educate him on the dangers of alcohol.

The first week includes an orientation including medical detoxification, health screening and assignment to a member of the staff.

King said medical detoxification is always the first step in extreme cases and takes place on the coast because it must be one under medical care unavailable at the local centre.

The detoxification is necessary when withdrawal symptoms such as d's or convulsions are being experienced by the patient.

Once the patient is detoxified, treatment at the local centre begins, and one of the first steps is to make sure the patient doesn't drink at the centre.

"He's not going to drink here," King said, "One of the things he agrees to in the contract he signs is to take Antabuse."

Skinny, skinny books

Two third graders and one second grader at Rosenswald Elementary School were the first to win tee shirts by reading more than 100 books in the county's Migrant Child Education Language Arts Tutorial program. From left, Jacqueline Thompson, 8, Marilyn Lee, 8 and Rose Sandoval, 8 show their favorite books they read for teacher Helen Ray, their tutor in the program. Resource teacher Suzanne Duncan said the "Skinny Books" are thin books designed to make the task of reading a book easier and more enjoyable to children with reading problems.

At local center

Retarded receive help

Suffer the little children.

But what happens when the little children suffer from paralysis, from malnutrition, from mental retardation or some other handicap?

One answer is being provided in Belle Glade by the center operated by the American Association for Retarded Citizens.

The center was founded in Pahokee last year but moved into its present quarters at 714 N.W. Second St., this year when director Peggy Atkinson found most of the children came from Belle Glade.

The center's purpose is to get children with a variety of handicaps, including mental retardation, ready for public schools. Ms. Atkinson said seven children enrolled at the West Area Exceptional Child Education Center at Gove Elementary School.

She said a total of seven children are now enrolled at the center, although it is equipped and funded to handle ten.

"Most people don't know about it," Ms. Atkinson said.

"Public agencies have been fairly good about referring kids to us and some others have been referred to us by the neighbors of the families."

She said the center accepts children from birth through five years of age and concentrates on teaching them, to function in society as well as teaching self-help skills.

The training includes toilet training, brushing teeth, sometimes how to feed themselves and how to interact with other children and adults.

Every mealtime is a training session, she said, "because it's naturally a time for social interaction."

But working with the children isn't always enough. Sometimes Ms. Atkinson said she must also work with the parents, such as two children in the program who were undernourished when they were entered.

She said she attempts to teach the parents about proper diet, and if the child has another problem, the parents may require education about that.

One of the functions of the center, she said, was to do away with the custom of hiding retarded children instead of training them to cope with life.

She said she uses as little red tape as possible and the normal method of recruitment is to get the referral, go to the home and speak to the parents to arrange a visit to the center.

"We like to bring the parents here," Ms. Atkinson said, "so they can see what we're doing."

If the child should have a special problem, such as the two now enrolled who are partially paralyzed, or the one who is deaf, therapists are brought in to help.

Home-to-home service is provided since the children are picked up at their homes and delivered back in the afternoon. Ms. Atkinson said hot meals and snacks are also provided.

The center is located in a house donated by St. John's Episcopal Church and Ms. Atkinson said all of the five centers in the county are in buildings donated by churches.

Ms. Atkinson said her aides must undergo a two-week workshop and a number of workshops during the year to be qualified.

Belle Glade woman attends convention

Mrs. Martha W. Allison of 650 S.E. Ave. F was one of four Florida women attending a United Christian Ashram Congress in New Delhi, India in October.

The sessions were held Oct. 14 in the Hotel Imperial in India's capital city and drew delegates from ten denominations as well as all races and countries around the world.

"New Life in the Spirit" was the congress theme, which was highlighted in worship services, bible study, prayer groups, faith in action classes and lay witness sessions.

Tribute was paid during the congress to Dr. E. Stanley Jones, late founder of the Ashram movement, which began in 1930 in Sat Tal, India. Dr. Jones, a Methodist missionary to India, saw the value of the teaching retreat movement practiced by Indian intellectuals and adapted it to the Christian faith.

In essence, the Christian Ashram is a retreat for renewal with Jesus Christ as leader and the Holy Spirit, the empowerer. It is a temporary retreat in order to return to the world and serve its needs.

The Ashram movement sponsors one day, weekend, and week-long Ashrams to fit varying times available. Members remain active in their own congregations and denominations although the movement is worldwide.

An Ashram motto is "Here we enter a fellowship... sometimes we will agree to differ, always we will resolve to unite and serve."

Directly following the congress, delegates journeyed into the foothills of the Himalayas to Sat Tal for a one-day Ashram.

The Parson Pontificates

This coming Sunday is Drug and Alcohol Concerns Day. That's great! We ought to set aside one day a year to be concerned about a problem that is destroying literally millions of lives. And would you believe that the number one drug problem in the United States is alcoholism? Asia's biggest problem, on the other hand, is starvation. And there is a world hunger conference this week, to try to find ways to moderate that suffering. I've got an idea! Why don't we get together? If we could make bread out of the grain in this country instead of deliberately rotting it to make a drink that drives people out of their minds, that could help to alleviate both problems. But then, we'll never have a solution until we really want one. (See Amos 8:11; Luke 6:25)

Quarterly conference held

The First Quarterly Conference of the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church of Belle Glade was opened Friday night with the Rev. Charles Robinson, pastor, leading devotion.

Pastor Robinson gave a sermonette from the 18th Psalm after which the pastor presented the presiding elder, S.A. Cousin of the West Miami District. He then took over the business session of the meeting. All boards and clubs made full reports.

Sunday began with Sunday Subject Guidelines for Happy Living. Presiding Elder S.A. Cousin gave a review of the lesson.

Worship opened at 11 a.m. with Rev. Robinson and the youth choir with Mrs. Jessie Jenkins at the organ and Mrs.

Brenda Montgomery at the piano.

The pastor presented the presiding elder who spoke from St. Luke 15:11-32. His theme was "The Father". One person joined the church.

Also present was Mrs. S.A. Cousin, who will be entering the Duke University Hospital in North Carolina.

You'd Better Believe in Youth!

Believe it or not, today there are one hundred million Americans 25 years young or younger. That's right, half our population of two hundred million people.

On this basis, you'd better believe in youth, if you ever believed in anything.

Fortunately, you can believe in this swelling tidal wave of Tomorrow.

Despite the bearded beacons in some areas, the youth of today is just as sound as the youth of yesterday.

Despite the hapless hippies of the lunatic fringe, the high school crop of today is the best crop we've ever raised. They're eager to learn and share their knowledge.

Despite misguided demonstrators on some campuses, the college men and women of today are learning more and acting more adult than those of other generations.

Despite the commie-led agitators on city streets, the Christian-oriented youth in your neighborhood and mine are still closer to God and country than ever before.

Young men in uniform are helping America keep its pledges all over the world. Young women in uniform are backing them up, and serving the sick, the halt and the lame all over the land.

Yet, youth is on the march everywhere... to take over the job of upholding law and order. Young business men are assuming more responsibilities. Young scientists are contributing to new products, new developments in every field.

Dynamic, restless, productive youth is dedicated to improve this world.

If you don't believe it, get acquainted with some of the young people in your neighborhood. You might even help with one of the youth groups in your community or at your place of worship.

Methodist Church history

Following the American Revolution and the break with the Church of England, the Methodist Church in the new country was officially launched at the Christian Conference of 1784 in the Lovely Lane Chapel in Baltimore. This, the second in a series of three articles by Bishop Joel D. McDovid, further explains the history of United Methodism.

The earliest agenda of the new Wesleyan Conferences focused on three basic questions: 1) What to teach; 2) How to teach; 3) What to do. So, the United Methodist movement has sought to unite faith and action, believing and doing. Our very title Methodist came from the Holy Club of students at Oxford who had a plan for their beliefs and methodically expressed their faith in good works.

The written sources of our beliefs other than the Bible, are John Wesley's sermons and notes preached and written over a span of 14 years beginning in 1746. He issued four volumes of 48 sermons in which he set forth the sum of his basic teachings. In 1754 he penned and published a volume of "Explanatory Notes Upon the New Testament" as a guide to Methodist Biblical and doctrinal interpretation. The primary guide in both his sermons and notes is the authority of the Bible.

In 1763 a "model deed" for all Methodist chapels assured the appointment to be a preacher "provided always that the said person preach to doctrine other than is contained in Mr. Wesley's notes upon the New Testament and four volumes of sermons."

A second source was the 25 Articles of Religion. In the Church of England there were 38, but Wesley abridged these into 24. These 24 are allegiance to the country in which the Methodist Church exists.

The first restrictive rule of the Constitution of the United Methodist Church adopted in 1808 and unchanged since forbids any further alterations of the Articles of Religion. The third document is the nature, design and general rule of the United Societies adopted in 1783. With slight revision they were adopted by the Christmas Conference in 1784 in Baltimore, out of which came the Methodist Church.

Now the Evangelical United Brethren Church brought into union with the Methodist Church in 1966 their own historic documents, which were in complete agreement with those already named. So, what then do we believe as stated in these historic documents?

First, we believe in the Bible. In that soil alone does our faith flourish. Bishop Mac Stokes says, "Everytime we try to plant it somewhere else it withers and dies." The Bible is the mainstay of our pulpits, the content of our church school lessons and the foundation of our devotional life. We do not look upon it as a proof text volume or a definition, nor as an authority on science or technology. It is a living book on man's encounter with God.

We believe in God-God is supreme. In an effort to describe his greatness we use words like omnipotent, all powerful, omniscient, all knowing; omnipresent, ever present. He is the creator and the lord of the universe. He is the author and sustainer of the heavens above, the earth beneath, and all the great forces and power through which the universe operates.

We believe in Jesus Christ. The greatest fact in history was his coming into the world. The most sublime events are those that occurred in a stable, on a cross, and ended in an empty tomb. We believe with Paul that Jesus Christ is the full revelation of God. If you want to know what God is like, then acquaint yourself with Jesus. If you want to understand the heart, mind and will of God, you find this as you experience Jesus Christ. Through Christ we are convicted of our

British fire Franklin

By Jerome Turk and Edw. Walsh

LONDON, Nov. 7, 1774-Ten years ago today, Benjamin Franklin left Philadelphia for England. After a decade here in London, is it time at last to give up trying to reason with British officialdom? Is it time for America's best-known citizen, an agent for four colonies, to return home?

London hasn't changed in these ten years, Dr. Franklin has.

Three-quarters of a million people live in this teeming city. I walked with the poorest of them in the infested slums. I saw them flock to gin houses, squandering twopenny for drunkenness, collapsing in beds of straw.

I watched the rich dally in decadence. I saw an earl named John Montague, First Lord of the Admiralty, stand 24 hours at a gaming table. So intent on gambling is he that he has invented a food he can eat while throwing the dice. It consists of two pieces of bread with slices of roast beef held between them. The food has even been named after this Earl of Sandwich. (I wrote a letter to my colleague Turk in New York about it: "As primitive as some Englishmen feel we are, I'm certain this ridiculous sandwich will never become popular in America.")

This morning, I found my way to number 7 on Craven Street, the residence of Dr. Franklin. The big house belongs to the widowed Mrs. Margaret Stevenson, who answered my knock, opened the door and smiled: "Ah! A visitor from America, no doubt to see Dr. Franklin."

A little crestfallen that Mrs. Stevenson could so quickly tell my colonial origin from the cut of my clothes, I was immediately heartened by the warm reception of Benjamin Franklin himself, looking up from the papers at the desk of his study. I was awed to be in the presence of this scientist, scholar, businessman, author and statesman.

"A writer, are you? Well, we poor writers must look out for each other," Dr. Franklin smiled over his spectacles. Though busier than two men half his 68 years, Franklin made me thoroughly at ease, chatting about the latest news from the colonies. The hair on his massive head has gone silvery thin. The wide mouth often stretches into a wry grin.

Unfortunately, more visitors arrived before I could put pertinent questions to him. But later I did learn much from Dr. Franklin's friends.

I learned, for example, that Franklin had endured an excruciating ordeal last January 29th. On that day, he was summoned by the Privy Council to appear in a small room at Whitehall known as the "cockpit."

The issue involved six letters sent to England by Massachusetts Governor Thomas Hutchinson, a bitter enemy of Samuel Adams. The letters suggested the need for armed intervention against the rebellious Bostonians. Coming into the hands of Franklin, the letters were sent by him as Massachusetts agent, to Sam Adams, who promptly read them in the colony's Assembly. That embarrassed the governor and incensed the public.

For an hour, British officials abused Franklin so viciously with insult and invective that these words were later removed from official records. Franklin offered not one word in retaliation. The day after his ordeal in the cockpit, he was discharged as Deputy Postmaster General for the colonies, a position he had held with ingenuity and distinction.

When Dr. Franklin arrived in London ten years ago, he had a great love for all things English: the people, the country, the king.

No longer. London has not changed. But Benjamin Franklin has.

Belle Glade to greet Santa with decorations

Belle Glade will be lighted up again this Christmas, following last year's decorations fiasco, if the city commission has its way.

Working against time, the commission decided to authorize bids for decorations in today's Herald and open the bids during a workshop session Monday in an effort to decorate city streets for the coming Yuletide season.

It seemed likely Tuesday night the commission would probably go with the offer made by Tonn Decorative Service, Inc. of Ocala to provide decorations for three streets for approximately $10,000.

Company president, Donald E. Tonn recommended the commission buy decorations for Main Street from South Avenue E to Avenue A, Avenue A from Main to Southwest Fifth Street and Southwest Fifth from West Avenue E for $9,486.30 but the commissioners decided to order at least one more major decoration.

Unlike last years, Florida Power and Light has offered to install the decorations for a total of $150 but would not pick up the tab for the electricity.

In the past, FP&L has provided the electricity free through the Belle Glade Jaycees but gave notice last year they would be unable to because of the fuel crisis.

Tonn said he had toured the city all day Tuesday before drawing up his recommendations. City Manager William Mallory said the only other response was from the L. C. Wilson, Jr. of Hillsboro, Tex. Tonn cautioned the commissioners they were getting extremely close to the time they would have to place an order to get the decorations on time.

To attend gathering in Jerusalem

The Rev. Mrs. Miriam Dulany and her daughter, Mrs. Gloria John Smith, will attend the 1974 International Methodist Convocation on Evangelism on Nov. 16-23 to be held in Jerusalem, a city sacred to three of the world's great religions: Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

The world-wide gathering of Methodists will be held in Binyanya Ha'ooma Convention Hall, Jerusalem, and Shepherds Fields Bethlehem.

The Jerusalem program will be a platform for evangelism leaders from Methodist Churches around the world, to voice their message of hope in Christ, and consider together a world strategy or mission in evangelism.

Because the Christian movement was launched in Jerusalem, it is thought most appropriate to gather there, to seek God's counsel for "Methodist's Mission to the World."

Helping to develop the "Message to the World" document, which will be used to launch a world-wide evangelism thrust in 1975, will be representatives from 59 Methodist denominations and 87 countries.

REV. DULANY ...to attend gathering.

Featured speakers will be foremost Methodist evangelism leaders from Argentina, India, Ghana, Philippines, U.S.A., England, and Australia.

Bishop F.C. Enzley, Chairman World Evangelism Committee, states, "In an age when the forces of evil are strong, and are challenging the faith, it is important that all true believers in Christ and His way of life, should gird their spirits to meet the challenge. The Methodist family, the globe around, has resolved to put its time honored belief in evangelism, and make the world its parish."

An integral part of the Worldwide Evangelism Convocation will be inspirational visits to the most important sites in the life and ministry of Jesus. Among these will be tours to the Old City area, Jericho, Dead Sea, Qumran, Bethlehem, Samaria, Megiddo, Caesarea, Nazareth, Sea of Galilee, Capernaum, Etc. Each evening, "after glow" sessions will be conducted in the delegate hotels under the leadership of outstanding resource persons, centering on the day's visits, in light of the world wide mission of God for today.

Rev. Dulany is chairman of the Commission on Evangelism of the Community Methodist Church of which Rev. Randall Parsons is pastor. She serves as prayer minister, hospital and home visitation steward, member of the Church administrative board, teacher of the Tri-F (couples) Sunday School Class. She is the wife of John A. Dulany, Salesmanager of Day Break Farms. They, their daughter and son, Philip A. Dulany, are long-time residents of the Glades.

Mrs. Smith has been active for many years in the Youth Departments of the local Church, in the areas of Bible, Evangelism and Music. She is a teacher in the Belle Glade Elementary School, and wife of Sydney K. Smith, Jr.

LONG CORDS-UNSAFE

In New Hampshire recently, a mother was brewing hot coffee in an electric coffee pot on the kitchen table. The lengthy cord stretched along the floor to an outlet on a nearby counter. Unknowingly, her three-year-old tripped on the cord and received permanent burn damage over a large portion of his body from the scalding coffee.

According to a recent report from the Department of Health, Juvenile and Welfare, thousands of accidents per year are attributed to entanglements in appliance cords.

As a result, Underwriters Laboratories, the watchdog of the nation's electrical safety codes, revised its standards to provide coffee-makers and other liquid heaters with cords that are a minimum of 2 feet and maximum of 3 feet long. This should greatly decrease the number of household accidents.

Take a hint: If you're using a cord that's overlong, shorten it for your own safety.
